Have Dog, Will Travel Stephen Kuusisto,2019-03-19 In a lyrical love letter to guide dogs everywhere, a blind poet shares his delightful story of how a guide dog changed his life and helped him discover a newfound appreciation for travel and independence. Stephen Kuusisto was born legally blind—but he was also raised in the 1950s and taught to deny his blindness in order to pass as sighted. Stephen attended public school, rode a bike, and read books pressed right up against his nose. As an adult, he coped with his limited vision by becoming a professor in a small college town, memorizing routes for all of the places he needed to be. Then, at the age of thirty-eight, he was laid off. With no other job opportunities in his vicinity, he would have to travel to find work. This is how he found himself at Guiding Eyes, paired with a Labrador named Corky. In this vivid and lyrical memoir, Stephen Kuusisto recounts how an incredible partnership with a guide dog changed his life and the heart-stopping, wondrous adventure that began for him in midlife. Profound and deeply moving, this is a spiritual journey, the story of discovering that life with a guide dog is both a method and a state of mind.

The importance of keeping a first aid kit should never be underestimated. The practice of keeping a first aid kit not only in the house but also in the workplace or in the car is strongly recommended because you do not know when accidents or emergencies will take place. However, the sad news is that, only a few people have the habit of preparing for these accidents. Most people do not see the importance of maintaining a first aid kit and ensuring that all the components of the kit are usable and are far from their expiration dates.In addition to homes and cars, factories and business buildings must also have a first aid kit in designated areas. If the business building is huge and have a lot of people working there, first aid kits must be present in every section of the building.
